W. C. T. U. HEADS PLAN CAMPAIGN

State-Wide Prohibition

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 4.—At an all-day session of the officers of the State W. C. T. U., held here today at the home of the president of the organization, Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, Winchester was selected as the place for holding the 1914 State convention, the last week in September, and a comprehensive plan for pushing the campaign for State-wide prohibition in Kentucky of was discussed and mapped out.

Owing to expressed desire of a number of members of the present Legislature to submit the bill for a constitutional amendment looking to State-wide prohibition, it was decided to press the campaign from now on, and plans for a compact, effective State organization were agreed upon. A chairman is to be appointed in every county, who in turn is to appoint precinct committees with a chairman of the precinct and school district to act in conjunction for pushing the work.

The State officers present at the meeting were:

Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, Lexington, president; Mrs. Juliet Powers, Grayson, vice president; Mrs. Anna E. Wheeler, Grayson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Julia Gunn, Lexington, recording secretary, and Mrs. Nora B. Taylor, Lexington, treasurer.

Earlington Commandery No. 525 N. O. G. C.

Our Citadel has been invaded once more by the grim monster, Death, and taken away our companion and brother W. N. Clark—famously known as "Preacher Billy Clark."

This Commandery has lost a faithful member, and the family a kind and indulgent husband and father, and the town, a good and loyal citizen.

Bro. "Billy" Clark was a good preacher, as the numerous churches he served in this and other counties will testify. He was truly a "Man of God" and his demise has left a vacant place among the churches of Hopkins and Webster counties.

Bro. Clark was pastor of the Earlington Missionary Baptist church at the time of his death, and the prayer of this church is that a double portion of his spirit may be upon his successor at the Sacred Desk. May God add his blessing on this sad event and we commend his bereaved family to the love and mercy of God in this trying hour.

Resolutions of Respect on the death of Knight W. N. Clark, who departed this life Jan. 28th, 1914, after a long illness.

CHIC GOWNS WORN AT TANGO TEAS

Fur Remains a Popular Trimming for Chiffon as for Silk and Woolen Frocks

A SCARF FOR EVERY DRESS

Ruffles a Popular Feature of the Taffeta
Dancing Frock

New York, February 4th.—The craze of dancing seems to have taken the world by storm. It is no longer the whim of a few, but of the many. For some time the large restaurants have cleared a dancing place that their patrons may enjoy a between-course feast of the one-step, the Boston dip, or the much-maligned tango. The hotels, feeling that they were losing patronage, raked their brains for some method of bringing the people back to their folds, in their turn instituted The Dances, or Tango Tea.

Between the hours of four and six the tea-rooms are filled with a music-loving, dancing-mad crowd of men and women; and not all of the younger set, either. It is at these gatherings that one may see the latest afternoon styles.

I feel like a drab mouse slipping my tea in a corner while watching gaily-dressed couples pass back and forth in the steps that seem at once so simple and so intricate.

It is, I thought, no wondrous slashed skirts continue to be the mode; for how could a woman achieve the different steps of these new dances in the narrow skirts of the period with out them? There is no gainsaying that the vogue for dancing has influenced dress very strongly, even the dress of those who look upon the modern dances with disapprobation.

Taffetas in colors grave and gay are prominent at all the dancing teas. A striking, changeable silk frock especially caught my eye the other day. It was worn by a young lady who sailed gracefully by my corner table, leaving a breath of her joyous personality behind. I sketched the frock as it appears in our illustration.

The bodice is large and blousy—yet not too loose—with fullness enough that the edges of the surplice front are gathered to form a frill of the material, the only trimming. The sleeves are short and finished with a similar frill. The skirt is trimmed with two wide bias ruffles, which drop lower on one side than the other. To be strictly a la mode, no two sides of a dress should be the same. The most striking feature of this frock, the one which gives it a touch of distinction, is a broad ribbon sash of brilliant oriental coloring. The ends hang down far behind, and are finished with tassels.

Sounds Like "Finnigan"

A few years ago, Engineer Donahue of the Missouri Pacific had a breakdown to his engine on the Kickapoo grade. He went to the telephone office and sent the master mechanic, W. T. New, the following message, in which the famous "off again, on again" message of Finnigan is clearly outclassed.

"Mr. New:

What would you

WEATHER BUREAU TO PREPARE FOR OPENING OF PANAMA CANAL

Ask to be Allowed to Establish Caribbean
Weather Service, and to Give Special Attention to Earthquake
Observations in Canal Zone.

In order to protect the shipping that will use the Panama Canal, the Weather Bureau of the Department of Agriculture has asked for authority to extend its weather service to the Caribbean Sea so as to obtain complete meteorological reports from 16 stations. In the belief that this whole region will become a great highway for vessels after the opening of the canal, the Weather Bureau wishes to restore certain features of the comprehensive weather service established throughout the West Indies at the time of the Spanish War in the interests of the fleets and transports.

One of the new stations would be a fully equipped station of the Weather Bureau similar to those within the United States, and located in the Canal Zone itself. Substations would be maintained at appropriate points along the canal for use in the proper dissemination of Weather Bureau information. Each station would make two observations a day, at 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. In addition to the land station the Weather Bureau wishes also to provide for the extension of marine reports by wireless from vessels plying the waters of this region, so as to provide the safest possible information covering the entire Caribbean section.

The weather observations in the Caribbean Sea, it is believed, will be of special service in connection with the various storm warnings now communicated through the station signals and by wireless to all ships in the Western Atlantic and the Gulf district. In these storm warnings will be used special reports from the entire West Indies.

The Weather Bureau also has asked to be allowed to continue as a regular feature the seismological observations now being made by the War Department to supply information as to earth movements likely to affect canal construction. The bureau believes that maintenance of these observations is of great importance and has asked authority of Congress to make seismological observations in the Canal Zone a regular part of its work.

KENTUCKY BANK RESOURCES INCREASE $4,000,000

Good Advance Shown in Three Months By Reports to Treasury

Washington, Feb. 3.—Total resources of Kentucky national banks were about $4,000,000 more on January 13 than on the last previous date when the treasury department called for an accounting October 13. The figures for all the state banks were made public by the department today with the comparisons for October 13. They follow:

Loans and discounts, January, $50,549,177; October, $749,718,259.

Gold coin, January, $742,160; October, $780,060. Total resources, January $83,337,809; October $79,718,257.

Under the head of liabilities the statement shows that on the January report date individual deposits were $46,392,446 as opposed to $23,066,646 in October, a huge gain for thrifty Kentuckians.

Other statistics are: Percentage of legal reserve to deposits, January 16.20; October 16.66.

FOREST NOTES

The legislatures of Virginia and South Carolina are considering advanced forestry legislation.

The paper used by the government printing office each year requires approximately 125 million pounds of raw pulp, and 490 million pounds of wood pulp.

F. A. Elliott, state forester, of Oregon, says that co-operative fire patrol associations among lumbermen for prevention of forest fires have proved their worth.

Of 606 fires last year on the national forests of Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma, more than one-half were caused by lightning. Campers set about one-tenth, and railroads one-twentieth.

Roadside signs, each containing a single catchy sentence in large type, are proving effective in warning against fires on western forests. They give the essentials and tell the importance of protection against forest fires.

Newspapers Are Essential Part of Modern Life

EVERYBODY reads papers these days. Most persons read two or three and sometimes more. They are essential as breakfast, as regular as supper. Whether you are interested in politics, baseball, the Chinese question, the tariff, fashions or cookery, you look to the papers for information.

And you get the information you seek along with much other news, gossip, fact, fancy and entertainment. The day is not complete without the paper. You start the day with a glance at it, and you are likely to lay it down to prepare for slumber.

The paper that is so essential to you is equally essential to your neighbor. He, too, reads it and finds therein the things he wants to know. Its appeal is universal, its circulation coextensive with mankind.

That is what makes the newspaper the best advertising medium that civilization has devised. It reaches everybody, or at least the fraction that it does not reach is so small as to be negligible. And even the few who may not read the newspaper will be guided by those who do so that an advertisement will bring business from those who never see it.

$125.00* FOR ONE DAY'S WORK

Would you consider 250 bushels of corn good pay for a day's work? Would five bushels per acre more on your yield pay for gathering your seed from the field instead of selecting it from the crib? In other words, if you plant 50 acres to corn, one day's work will yield you $125.00—pretty good wages for gathering corn!

When you plant your seed corn, do you know whether it will grow or not? Do you know how to properly select and test so as to get the largest production? You cannot afford to farm good land to corn unless you make it produce every stalk and every ear that it is capable of growing.

Have you ever had your crop of corn injured more or less by drought? Do you know that the depth of plowing and the methods and efficiency of cultivation determine in a large degree the moisture supply of your corn crop? Making Corn Pay tells you just how to get best results.

MAKING CORN PAY is written by S. M. Jordan, Director of the Pettis Co. (Missouri) Bureau of Agriculture. In Missouri, Sam Jordan is more than a citizen—he is an institution, unique, and in a class by himself. Sam Jordan knows corn as few men do, and what is more important, he knows how to tell about it, so that others may profit by his experience. This book has done in the book on "MAKING CORN PAY."

He has not attempted an elaborate treatise on the scientific phases, but has written a book that should prove wonderfully interesting, helpful and inspiring to the average corn grower. To follow the teachings of this book means bigger profits for every grower of corn.

Make the Farm Pay Better—Read Farm and Home

Every successful man profits by the experience of others—this is just as true on the farm as in any other walk of life. Each issue of this "National Magazine of Rural Life" tells you what the other fellow is doing—what improvements he is making, to make the farm more profitable, and attractive.

FARM AND HOME editors are practical farmers—live on farms and meet the same problems that our readers do; thus they know from actual experience just what will interest the real farmer, and every farmer of his family.

Special articles by well-known recognized authorities are featured in each of its 24 issues, each article being illustrated, and treating on some special phase of farm work, which is especially interesting at the time of publication.

For instance, do you know how much difference there should be between the churning temperature in summer and in winter—and just how to wash, work and salt the butter to make it a rich, sweet and toothsome product, which brings top prices? A special article in FARM AND HOME recently answered all of these questions—and more too.

If you had 400 bushels of corn fit for hog and horse feed, would you husk it, or put it in the silo with the fodder? Do you know whether it pays better to put heavily eared corn in the silo or to husk it? It is a disputed question among farmers, but an experience of a Wisconsin man, recently published in FARM AND HOME, shows where he lost over $200.00 worth of corn and 3,500 pounds of other grain by not knowing just what to do. Can you profit by his experience?

For thirty-four years FARM AND HOME has been steadily growing in value and popularity, until now it has over six hundred thousand subscribers. A year's numbers contain between seven and eight hundred pages; an average of thirty pages to each of its twenty-four issues. It is published in two editions—eastern and western—the western edition being edited in Chicago. Thus while national in character, it carefully takes care of the peculiarities of the eastern and western territory, as well as a distinctly local paper. Regular Price Fifty Cents a Year

But This Does Not Bother Mrs. Burton, Under the Circumstances.

Houston, Texas.—In an interesting letter from this city, Mrs. S. C. Burton writes as follows: "I think it is my duty to tell you what your medicine, Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done for me.

I was down sick with womanly trouble, and my mother advised several different treatments, but they didn't seem to do me any good. I lingered along for three or four months, and for three weeks, I was in bed, so sick I couldn't bear for any one to walk across the floor.

My husband advised me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken two bottles of Cardui, am feeling fine, gained 15 pounds and do all of my housework. Friends hardly know me, I am so well."

If you suffer from any of the ailments so common to women, don't allow the trouble to become chronic. Begin taking Cardui to-day. It is purely vegetable, its ingredients acting in a gentle, natural way on the weakened womanly constitution. You run no risk in trying Cardui. It has been helping weak women back to health and strength for more than 50 years. It will help you. At all dealers.

POULTRY POSTMORTEM IMPORT- TANT.

A postmortem is often a key that solves a poultry disease puzzle. The knife opens a fowl like a book, and one may read its contents. But this source of knowledge is abhorrent to some and neglected by many poultry raisers, and thus a plague oft kills a flock. A hereditary disease is transmitted down the line and diseased fowls may be sold and eaten.

Some diseases show few external symptoms. Internal tumors, for instance, seldom show an outside indication and may affect a whole flock of early victims are not opened.

Turkey raisers especially seldom make postmortems.

We have known whole flocks to be destroyed when opening the first carcase would have given the clue and showed that a simple change of feed, quarantine or keeping the big birds from the grain fields would have saved the majority.

Turkeys have few troubles, chief being indigestion, blackhead and tapeworm. With the exception of acute indigestion, whose cause may be generally found in contents of crop or digestive tract, ordinary indigestion and blackhead show about same external symptoms—loss of appetite, sleepiness, dragging feet, diarrhea and progressive emaciation.

Internally, indigestion generally shows sour crop and mushy, oversized, light colored liver.

In deadly contagious blackhead, liver is invariably soft and covered with bright yellow ulcers that perforate it and are full of pus and microbes. And the caeca, the forked branch at junction of large and small intestines, is swollen and full of yellow, cheesy deposit and microbes. Tapeworm is often diagnosed as something else until opening the intestine under water shows the hanging parasites. To really know poultry disease postmortems must be performed, and they are certainly easy. First keep tab of external symptoms and make this complete by adding the internal.

Nail fowl to board, pluck breast, cut through to bones at junction of neck and breast, break these bones, cut down along sides, but not too deep—draw down breastbone so that upper organs are exposed, having care not to tear peritoneum or lining of abdomen, until you have observed same. A post-mortem should be made as soon as dead fowl is stiff and a sprinkling of carbolic solution will kill all odor and germs that might cause blood poison.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

California is called "the pigeon fancier's paradise." The breeding season begins in January and is longer than in the east, while the flocks are inexpensive and are open except where the location is exposed to drafts.

When a newly hatched chick gets a chill it's at once a case of acute indigestion, for the absorbed yolk at once becomes an indigestible and kills. Our neighbors call this white diarrhea and declare Mother Hen deposits the microbe in the egg or on the shell. Much hot air theories afford amusement to the practical poultryman and help cushion pressing experts to kill time between pay days.

The last census gives 89 per cent of American farms credit for producing 1,501,311,371 dozens of eggs. Eggs hidden in haymows and under hogpens are not included in the report and will later report for themselves.

A postmortem on a White Leghorn revealed an immense egg, within this a layer of albumen and next an ordinary egg of perfect structure. The latter was set and hatched a normal chick.

Mixing grit with mash and compelling hungry hens to eat it is apt to gorge the gizzard with an overdose and be detrimental. Follow nature's way, and keep it before them every day.

The most popular and the heaviest eggs in Europe are produced in Denmark. They average thirty ounces per dozen and sell at a premium everywhere. As large and small eggs sell by the dozen in this country there isn't much inducement for egg farmers to produce large eggs. Eggs should be sold by weight, and this method only gives buyer and seller a square deal.

When cold, frosty mornings come fowls that are crowded soon show the bad effects of such management. They go from their sweatbox into the chill air, it cuts them to the marrow, and of course colds, catarrh, roup, result.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT. BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR.

Make it Thick, Glossy, Wavy, Luxuriant and Remove Dandruff—Real Surprise for You

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

THOUGHTS FOR THE DAY

There's never a rose in all the world But makes some green spray sweeter;

There's never a wind in all the sky But makes some bird wing flatter.

There's never a star but brings to Heaven

Some silver radiance tender; And never a rosy cloud but helps

To crown the sunset splendor. No robin but may thrill some heart; His dawnlight gladness voicing; God gives us all some small sweet way

To set the world rejoicing. There's only one law and only one God;

For all things under the sun—The sea and the sand, and the wind-blown soul.

And the God and the law are one.

And whatever the law and the God be named

By being like you and me. They speak supreme in that cosmic voice

Which men call Harmony.

FALLING OFF IN SUP- PLY OF MEAT.

Shown in Official Figures and Causes Set Forth By Government.

Washington February 2.—Shortage of meat animals in the United States was strikingly demonstrated yesterday by the Department of Agriculture. The report showed that there are nine less beef cattle, seven less sheep and three less hogs now for each 100 persons in the country than there were in 1910. This means that it would take 18, 258,000 more cattle, sheep and swine to give the present population the same supply that the census of 1910 showed to exist.

The scarcity of meat animals is attributed by department experts to the encroachment of farms upon range territory, lack of a proper range leasing law, shortage in the corn and forage crop in Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma, increase in the value of land and higher cost labor and stock feed and in stock raising on farms in the East and South, because of poor marketing facilities, the temptation to sell live stock at prevailing prices and enormous losses from hog cholera.

Many ills come from impure blood. Can't have pure blood with faulty digestion? Lazy liver and sluggish bowels, Burdock Blood Bitters, is recommended for strengthening stomach, liver and bowels and purifying the blood.

Specimens From Foreign Jungles.

New York, February 2.—Two consignments of specimens of animal life slain in foreign jungles have been received by the American Museum of Natural History here—one from Theodore Roosevelt in South America and the other from Paul J. Rainey in British East Africa. By a coincidence the consignments from two sides of the globe arrived almost simultaneously.

The Roosevelt and Rainey expeditions are included among the twenty-three which made 1913 the greatest year of exploration in the museum's history according to the forty-fifth annual report of the institution, to be presented to the trustees to-morrow.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out to-night and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels and an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10 cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

How to Prevent the Tobacco Split Worm.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 2nd. Transplant the tobacco crop as early as possible in order to mature it before the appearance of the most destructive generation of the tobacco split-worm, advises bulletin No. 59 of the Department of Agriculture, in making recommendation for the control of this worm. When the early infestation is very severe, prime off and destroy the infested leaves; destroy all tobacco stubble as soon as the crop is harvested to prevent the breeding of a hibernating generation; clean up and destroy all trash in and around fields and tobacco barns; do not follow potatoes by tobacco if the infestations of tobacco has been more severe in such cases than where different rotation was followed; grow potatoes as far as possible from tobacco fields.

In Cuba and the United States the split worm is known as tobacco leaf-miner only. Only the older tobacco leaves are affected unless the infestation is very severe; and in these, the lower leaves, grayish irregular blotches are produced, which later turn brown and become fragile so that the tobacco is unfit for wrappers. At Clarksville, Tennessee, where the infestation is very slight, the larva in most cases begins work in the "roffles" along the midrib and they afterward migrate and form mines in various parts of the leaf.

The Newspaper Exchange

There is no section of the newspaper that comes home closer to where people live than the classified advertising. No matter how much more important theoretically the news from Mexico may be, the fact that your neighbor has offered his house for sale at a certain price touches you much more closely.

From these columns you read the intimate story of the town's daily life. The housewife is curious to know who is advertising for positions as servants. Working people want to know who is asking for help. People who own or who wish to buy or rent real estate are interested in the pending transfers. It is hard to find a class of people who do not follow these notices week by week.

Hence it is perfectly astonishing how many answers are often received from a simple little insertion in the To Rent, For Sale and Want columns. Anything you can do by personal inquiry is multiplied a hundred fold by the press.

Some people will put in hours or days and time worth dollars, running around and making inquiries haphazard, when they want to rent a place or sell some property. Meanwhile a few nickels or dimes spent in the newspaper would reach a hundred fold more people. Usually the man whom you expect to interest has other ideas, while newspapers bring inquiries from strangers and sources that would never occur to you.

This kind of advertising permits the buyer to get the best price, because he learns whether there is to be any competition. It gives the seller the most advantageous trade, because he finds whether there is really to be a demand.

In many places farmers are already doing a good business through parcel post by newspaper advertising. They are developing a trade that would rather pay a special price than buy through middlemen. The classified advertising is a time saver and a money earner.

EXPRESS COMPANIES ARE PLANNING ECONOMIES

Say The New Low Rates Make the Step Necessary

New York, Feb. 3.—Executive officials of the five big express companies met today to consider economies of operation, which they will be necessitated by the reduction of rates which went into effect today upon the order of the Interstate Commerce commission. Speaking for all the companies, F. F. Flagg, first vice president of the American Express companies, said:

"The companies felt that the adoption of such greatly reduced rates must be viewed with the gravest apprehension as to the outcome. They are, however, confronted with three alternatives: First an appeal to the courts; second the dissolution of the companies through liquidation; or the giving of a fair trial to the low rates. But with a realization that the express service is essential to the commercial interests of the country and that the shipping public was entitled to the protection afforded by the continuance of the express service provided the new conditions would afford a just remuneration to the express companies, they decided upon an earnest effort to make a success of the new rates."
